Gov. Williams Asks Speed On Four-Lane Highway Program

LANSING (P)—Gov. Williams has asked State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler to outline plans today for starting work on a $35,000,000-a-year highway program.

Williams told the commissioner to be ready with a report on proposed projects at today's administrative board meeting.

"We want to know what plans he has for the immediate future," Williams said. "If he is really on the ball he will give us the plans for the entire year."

The governor said Ziegler, with whom he has frequently tangled, can be expected to act quickly in fulfilling the wishes of the Legislature.

Guard Badly Injured In Ionia Prison Riot

IONIA (P)—Three Ionia State Reformatory convicts were in solitary confinement today and another was in the prison hospital following their short-lived uprising Monday.

The four overpowered two guards and held two civilian storekeepers hostages before Warden Garrett Heyns talked them into surrendering their weapons.

Guard Justin Wright, 51, was in serious condition at an Ionia hospital after one of the convicts hit him on the head with an iron bar.

Colleges Opened Up To Negroes

OKLAHOMA CITY (P)—The Oklahoma Board of Regents for Higher Education has ordered the integration of white and Negro students at all state-supported colleges.

The historic order, affecting 18 colleges, is effective at the start of the fall term in September. The vote by the board Monday was 8-1.

The action is in line with the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling that public schools should complete integration "as soon as feasible." It also brings to a climax an integration process started six years ago when the high court ordered graduate Negro students admitted to Oklahoma colleges.

Since then enrollment of Negroes in the graduate fields has become common and there has been no adverse reaction.

Under the motion, governing boards and presidents of the colleges were authorized to accept enrollment of all Negro students who qualify for admission.

Walks Into River

COVINGTON, Ky. (P)—Where's the hospital?" Michael Toth asked a bystander.

"Just keep walking straight ahead."

Toth did—smack into the Ohio River.

Fished out by police, Toth, 48, was charged with drunkenness and breach of peace.

Big 4 No Cure-All, Eisenhower Warns

WEST POINT, N.Y. (P)—President Eisenhower cautioned today against any "fatuous expectations" that the proposed Big Four conference will miraculously cure "a world sick with ignorance, mutual fears and hate."

The struggle to win an enduring peace "may last a generation," the President said in the commencement address at his alma mater, the U.S. Military Academy.

The projected "at the summit" conference will be only the beginning of a new effort, Eisenhower

Showdown Near On Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (P)—The Senate drove today for a fast showdown on a controversial multibillion-dollar bill.

Its main feature would authorize another four billion dollars of FHA mortgage insurance—enough to last a year at the present rate.

Its most disputed section, as approved by the Senate Banking Committee, calls for a vast Democratic-proposed program of public housing. It would authorize construction of 135,000 units of low-rental dwelling space for the needy each year for four years—540,000 units in all.

The Eisenhower administration had asked only for 35,000 units a year for two years, and Sen. Cappelhart (R-Ind.) announced he will wage a fight to cut the bill back to that level.

Cappelhart predicted the decision will be close, perhaps by less than half a dozen votes, and he said he expects to win. The Senate agreed Monday to debate limits on the bill likely to bring final action by nightfall. The House has not acted.

Million Doses Of Polio Serum Given Clearance

WASHINGTON (P)—The government has given the sputtering anti-polio inoculation program a shot in the arm with clearance of enough fresh Salk vaccine for about a million more doses.

U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele announced late Monday the approval for immediate distribution of some one million cubic centimeters of vaccine made by Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis.

Some Lack First Shots

A few hours later, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis—which is paying for the mass immunization of first and second-grade children— instructed the Lilly firm to ship cleared supplies by "the quickest possible route" to New Jersey, Maine, Montana, North and South Dakota. Children in these states have yet to receive their first shots in a projected three-shot series.

At the same time, Dr. G. Foard McGinnies, National Foundation consultant who wired the hurried-up shipment orders to Lilly, said in Atlantic City, N. J., the drug firm would be asked today to send vaccine out of the same million-shot supply to eight Southern and Western states where it would be used for second doses. He listed these states as Florida, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Arizona and New Mexico.

Meets New Tests

The government and the foundation are aiming at getting two shots into as many of the first and second-graders as possible before the polio season reaches its late summer peak. A third "booster" shot is planned for seven months later.

In his announcement Monday, Scheele said the million or so cubic centimeters "met the retesting procedures for vaccine which has already been produced"

This was the first newly made vaccine to be released under strict production and testing safety standards recently adopted by a committee of experts to the Public Health Service and subsequently accepted by the six licensed vaccine manufacturers.

Driver Reckless On Detroit River

DETROIT (P)—Termed a "menace on land or sea," Louis Morabito was ordered not to pilot a boat for the next four months. He was convicted of reckless driving on the Detroit River.

Morabito already has had his automobile driver's permit revoked.

"And don't take up flying," Traffic Judge George T. Murphy cautioned Morabito.

Rectory Is Not Part Of Church, Court Decides

LANSING (P)—A rectory is not part of a church, the State Supreme Court held Monday.

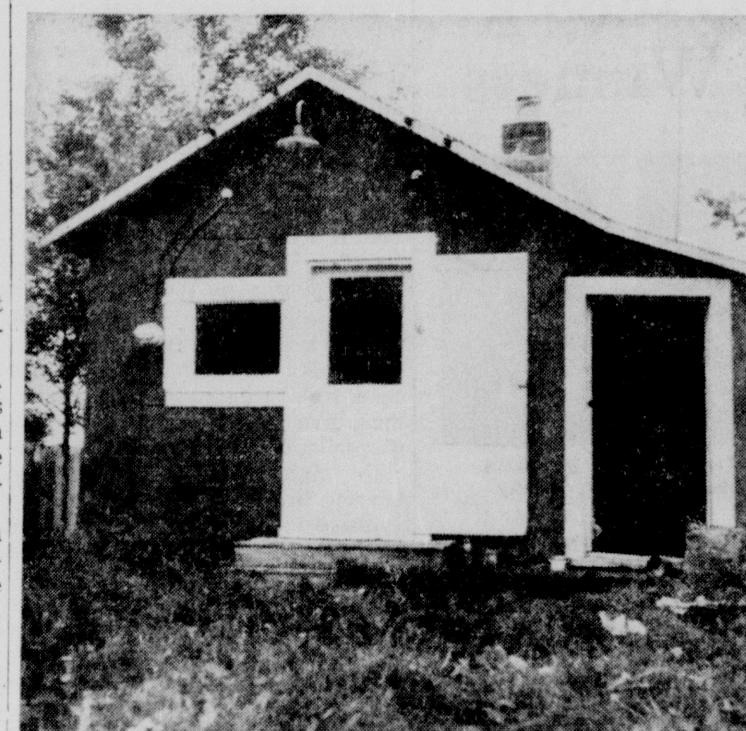

This ruling permits Chester A. Tabaczka, operator of Tobey's Market of Detroit to obtain a package beer and wine license from the State Liquor Control Commission.

The commission had refused him a license because his establishment was within 500 feet of the rectory of the St. Andrews church and school. All are on the same grounds.

The court said a rectory did not fall within the definition of a church or school—not being used primarily for religious worship or education.

THIS IS THE SHACK where Ernest Mattonen lived near Watson and which Bruce Kins, 20, of Kokomo, Ind., entered in the morning of June 2. The burglary resulted in the murder of Mattonen, 64. His body was found this morning about 100 yards from the shack.

Parolee Tells How He Killed Ernest Mattonen

The body of Ernest Mattonen, 64, Watson farmer and shagger, was found at 10:15 this morning 100 yards from Mattonen's shack, three-quarters of a mile west of the Watson store, a day and a half after Bruce Kins, 20 of Kokomo, Ind., walked into the shagger's home in Minot, N. D. and confessed the slaying of Mattonen on June 2.

Mattonen's body was found by Undersheriff Cully Johnson of the Delta County Sheriff's Department and Sgt. Ed Goldsberry of the Michigan State Police.

Mattonen had been shot through the head with a 12-gauge shotgun. The gun and the ejected cartridge were lying near the body. Police theorized that the killer may have attempted to give the impression that Mattonen had shot himself.

Attempted Break-In

Kins, a parolee from the Illinois State Prison at Pontiac, Ill., had been working at the Jerome DeBacker farm near Watson. Mattonen also was employed at the DeBacker farm.

The story told by Kins to Sheriff C. J. Westlake of Minot is that he killed Mattonen in an attempted break-in at Mattonen's home.

The shotgun was owned by Mattonen and Kins apparently stole the weapon when he broke into the Mattonen shack early in the morning of June 2.

The actual murder was committed outside of the Mattonen shack. Kins is reported to have told the North Dakota sheriff that he shot Mattonen from the Mattonen car that Kins stole to make his getaway.

Discovered Clothes Found

Sgt. Goldsberry found blood-stained clothes that were identified as Kins' in the brush about 100 yards from where the body of Mattonen was discovered. This clothing gave evidence of a struggle.

Mattonen's body apparently had been dragged from the place where he had been murdered to the swamp where the body was found.

Kins said this morning from the county jail in Minot:

"I shot him in the face. I think I killed him but I honestly don't know."

Kins was convicted of a burglary of a gasoline station in Peoria, Ill., in June, 1953 and was sent to the state prison at Pontiac, Ill. Previously he had served time in the Indiana State School for Boys in Plainfield, Ind., for a robbery of a farm home which he stole $30. He also had been involved in a series of minor criminal cases.

At one time he was at Father Flanagan's Boys Town in Nebraska under the assumed name of Robert E. Wood. He fled from Boys Town four times.

He came to the Upper Peninsula from the parolee from the Illinois State Prison and worked for a time on the Rene Verbrugge farm near Rock. Later he fled and was returned to Illinois as a parolee.

Benefits Outlined

Ford agreed to pay 5 cents a work hour per employee during the next three years toward a 55-million-dollar fund to pay out unemployment benefits to workers of up to $25 a week, supplementing their state unemployment compensation payments.

Ford succeeded in limiting company-financed supplemental jobless payments to 26 weeks duration, half a year compared with Reuther's demand for a full annual wage guarantee.

It also managed to hold the aggregate of company and state jobless payments to 60 to 65 per cent of normal pay, instead of the full earnings guarantee Reuther wanted.

Ford's strategic retreat and holding firm on these two principles may have important significance as a pattern for expected guaranteed wage bargaining in the steel, electrical and other mass production industries. But Ford clearly has broken the solid employer front against the guaranteed wage idea.

Only The Beginning

Reuther, who also heads the CIO, gave notice that the Ford plan was only a beginning.

"It provides the principle upon which we are going to build the guaranteed annual wage," he said. "The Ford Motor Co. is entitled to a great deal of credit for having shown the courage and wisdom for making it possible to pioneer in this important field."

Ford Agreement Sets Stage For GM Negotiations

DETROIT (P)—The CIO United Auto Workers Union today extended the General Motors Corp. contract from midnight tonight to midnight Sunday, thus averting any general walkout at least until then.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther told reporters that the UAW executive board would meet shortly to authorize a Sunday midnight walkout of GM workers if no agreement is reached by then.

The union's decision to delay any strike action until Sunday midnight provides five days additional time for GM negotiations.

DETROIT (P)—The CIO United Auto Workers Union moved today to extend its General Motors contract from midnight tonight to midnight Sunday.

Such an extension would avert any authorized walkout tonight among GM's 325,000 UAW-member workers.

A similar contract extension had been granted in the Ford Motor Co. negotiations last week. They culminated Monday in a new contract agreement including a guaranteed wage plan.

Optimism Indicated

A GM extension would indicate that the UAW had some assurance that GM was at least considering a guaranteed wage plan patterned after the Ford arrangement.

The five-day extension to Sunday would give GM and the UAW more time for working out an agreement.

Reports that the union was about to grant the contract extension to Sunday was received as the UAW's 300-member General Motors Council met in a downtown hotel to review the GM negotiations and decided whether to go ahead with the DeBacker farm.

New Offer Reported

UAW President Walter P. Reuther, arriving late for the closed council session, said he was "not prepared to say" then whether a contract extension was contemplated.

Reports circulated earlier through GM's big Detroit office building that GM had put a new contract proposal on the bargaining table this morning.

Principle Has Opposition

For GM to fight would mean facing an almost certain strike and a major setback in its fiercely competitive fight for leadership in the auto sales market.

A strike among GM's 325,000 workers also would be a test of the UAW's solidarity. The union's biggest previous strike was the 1945-46 GM walkout involving 175,000 workers.

Meanwhile, debate broke out over the terms of the Ford settlement, embodying for the first time in a negotiated labor contract between a major American industrial firm and union the principle of the guaranteed wage.

Kins said this morning from the county jail in Minot:

Dairying Called Big U. P. Asset

"You might well give a bow to the Bossy when you pass a herd of dairy cows," Escanaba Kiwanis Club and Escanaba Lions members were told Monday by Charles E. Stone of Lansing, secretary-manager of the American Dairy Association in Michigan.

The speaker classed dairying as one of the Upper Peninsula's greatest assets, and said that the industry meant around $40,000,000 yearly to the peninsula area. He pointed out that dairy cows are an essential factor in building up the soil, and in addition dairy products are perfect in nutritional value.

"Dairy farmers must also be merchandisers," Mr. Stone declared. "He must encourage an increased demand for his products, but he's doing people a favor when he promotes the use of milk, butter and cheese."

Mr. Stone disclosed that the American Dairy Association, organized for the promotion of dairy products, was operating in 43 states, and had a budget of $55,000,000 for 1955.

Cruisers Enjoy Escanaba Visit

Return Of Donor Cards Requested

I was conducting a meeting when the boat docked and when the people saw that beautiful park they all got up and left me," said John W. Riley of Wyandotte, vice president of the Michigan State Association of Exchange Clubs which visited Escanaba this morning on a Great Lakes cruise aboard the SS South American.

There were 314 Exchange Club members and their wives from 46 of Michigan's 64 clubs aboard the ship. It docked shortly after 9:30 and the cruisers were greeted by Mayor Harlan Yelland and a welcoming committee and by a delegation from the Marquette Exchange Club, one of two in the Upper Peninsula. The other U.P. club is at the Soo.

Riley, scheduled for election this afternoon as president of the Association, said "We are grateful to Escanaba for its friendly greeting and a chance to see your attractive city and to shop and visit. There is only one thing lacking here that I can see. I wish you had an Exchange Club."

The South American left Detroit with the cruisers at 4 p.m., Sunday and will return there at 5 p.m., Wednesday. The Exchange Clubs of Michigan make a lake cruise every five years and this is their fifth. Escanaba was the only stop on the cruise and the ship cleared here at noon for Detroit. It had been through the Canadian Soo lock into Whitefish Bay.

The Marquette delegation which greeted the cruisers here included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hammer, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Buck and Mr. and Mrs. George Locke. Locke is district governor.

Cities represented on the cruise include: Adrian, Albion, Alpena, Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Benton Harbor, Birmingham, Brightmore, Caro, Clawson, Detroit, Dowagiac, Dundee, East Detroit, Farmington, Ferndale, Grand Rapids, Grosse Pointe, Hazel Park, Highland Park, Holland, Jackson, Lansing, Lincoln Park, Marshall, Monroe, Mt. Gerald Heslip, 1800 10th Ave. N., was recently admitted to the Iron Mountain Veterans Hospital.

A dairy cow will drink 12 to 15 gallons of water a day.

RECEIVES DEGREE — William Hemes, son of Mrs. Frank Hemes, 712 Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba, received the degree of Doctor of Optometry from the Chicago College of Optometry June 3. Dr. Hemes was president of his class in both his junior and senior years and is a member of Phi Theta Upsilon, professional optometric fraternity. After taking his state board this summer he plans on going into practice in the Upper Peninsula. The other U.P. club is at the Soo.

Soo Girl, Handicapped By Polio, Wins Degree In Orthopedic Surgery

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Among those standing up to receive their doctor of medicine degrees at Marquette University Wednesday will be one in a brace.

This is necessary so that scheduling of appointments for the wavy-day blood clinic can be arranged to the convenience of the largest number of donors. Mrs. Riegel explained. The sooner the donor cards are returned to the Red Cross office the better the procedure can be organized, she added.

Donors 18 to 21 years of age must have the consent of their parents, it was announced. Only requirement for donors 21 to 59 is that they have not given blood for the past three months.

The blood procurement clinics will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, June 14 and 15, at the Presbyterian Church. The hours on June 14 are from 3 to 8 p.m., and on June 15 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

At least 250 pints of blood must be obtained in the two-day clinic to meet the quota established for the blood program, Mrs. Riegel said.

Report Larceny — Harry Haglund, employed as a night man at the DX truck stop at 1022 N. 21st St., this morning reported to Escanaba police that $123.50 was missing from a drawer in the truck stop office. Police are investigating the possibility that the money may have been taken by one of the departing truck drivers who had spent the night in Escanaba.

The township roads have many holes and rough spots due to the spring breakup. Only 25% of the funds of the Delta County Road Commission may be used on county roads, and the snow plowing in this section of the county uses the 25% allowed by the State of Michigan.

Phil A. Miron, supervisor of Ford River Township, stated that persons residing on these township roads should attend this meeting so that a decision can be reached on how these road conditions are to be corrected.

Era Ended: Rural Areas Cease To Dominate State Legislature

When Michigan's Legislature was created, the land supplied a livelihood for most people of the state and lawmaking was strongly influenced by this fact. The lawmaking was apt to consider the farmer first and the city dweller second because there were so many more farmers than city dwellers. It was simple democracy at work.

But this order of things has gradually changed. At the present time there are more persons living in the cities of Michigan than on its farms and the trend continues strongly in the direction of increased city living. There is no longer need for so many farmers, nor is there the means of their support on the land.

This is not a situation local to Michigan; it is a general condition in the nation. During the past 15 years the number of workers on farms has been dropping at the rate of three or four per cent a year. There have been some brief exceptions to this trend, but it has been generally persistent. There are several causes — the increased efficiency of farm production, the job opportunities in cities, the tendency of farm production to grow faster than the demand for farm products, etc.

This change in employment and residence which shifted a big part of Michigan's growing population off the land and into cities has also influenced the politics of the state. But the political influence has lagged far behind the changes in employment and residence because democratic government tends to lag naturally. The governmental setup favored the efforts of the rural areas to hold onto their representation in the Legislature even after they had lost claim to it on a count of voter noses, which was the intention of the founding fathers.

The legislative session just ended at Lansing was the first of the new Michigan "balanced" Legislature which resulted from attempts to reconcile the claims for representation of the large, sparsely populated rural areas and the small, densely populated big city areas. The so-called "balanced" Legislature represented an effort of groups tried to balance a House controlled by big city representative against a Senate in which representation was more influenced by geography than by population.

The record of this first session of the "balanced" Legislature shows a historic change in Michigan's lawmaking. The problems of the farm groups were subordinated in the 1955 session. Agriculture is still a very important element of Michigan's economy. The state is 13th in the nation in the value of its farm products which had a value of more than $670 million last year, but the more than a century of rural emphasis in lawmaking is gone. Most of the major legislation of the session helped the people in cities or suburban areas.

The session brought the state's first fair employment practices law, it increased the gas tax from 4½ to 6 cents a gallon, increased benefits to jobless workers, ordered state aid for school building in distressed areas, increased aid to injured workers, increased appropriations for mental health and higher education.

The implication of the trend toward legislative influence by population and not by area is wholesomely democratic, but it means decreased influence in legislation for the U. P. and other areas of Michigan which are great geographically, but not populous. The most effective hedge for the U. P. against this loss is the election of able representatives and state senators and keeping them in office so they acquire seniority and influence. Green legislators are usually ineffective. Able, veteran legislators can be influential out of all proportion to the numbers of their constituents.

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

A Chicago reader — Mrs. Lillian Cooper — asks: "Would you kindly set me clear as to the word 'spoonful' I have been hearing it pronounced 'spoonfuls' on TV, in conversation and almost everywhere. If I remember correctly, the word is spoonful but I would appreciate your letting me know which is correct."

Some thirty years ago the formulation "spoonful" had a certain brief vogue among self-styled "purists." Today, however, the only accepted plural form of the word is "spoonfuls." There is one distinction worth noting, however. When you refer to three spoons, each full of water, you say "Three spoons full of water." But if, as is much more common, you mean one spoon filled three times, as in a cooking recipe, you say: "Three spoonfuls of water."

Barbara Moore, of Oakland, Calif., writes: "My aunt and I disagree on whether or not it is correct to end a sentence with a preposition. She says it shouldn't be done and I say that's old-fashioned 'book English.'

I don't know that there is anything inherently reprehensible about 'book English,' Barbara, but you win this argument hands down. As Berton Braley once wrote:

"The grammar has a rule absurd
Which I would call an outworn myth:
A preposition is a word
You mustn't end a sentence with!"

The greatest living master of English prose, Winston Churchill, disposed of this theory even more succinctly when he called the rule "nonsense up which I will not put!"

The Doctor Says... Severe Case of Sunburn Is Uncomfortable, Dangerous

By EDWIN P. JORDAN M.D. — Written for NEA Service

The old saying "the burnt child fears the fire" apparently does not apply to many grownups who get themselves painfully sunburned year after year. In many parts of the North American continent (apologies to California, Texas and Florida!) the sun is pretty weak during the winter months and the residents of our cities and towns lose most of their tan. But a goodly proportion seem to forget their vulnerability to the strong sun of late spring or early summer and spend the first bright Sunday or holiday trying to make up for lost time.

The inevitable result is a few absences from any big office the next day and the appearance of others shining like beacon light from sunburn. This really does not make much sense. A severe sunburn is not only uncomfortable but can be dangerous.

A sunburn is of no earthly benefit to health. When the skin is burned by sun the outer layers are killed and have to be replaced from the layers below. After a severe sunburn the outer layers are shed in sheets and pull off. The dead outer layers do not get any benefit from the sun and actually prevent some of the good which is desired.

The sun's rays are necessary for the growth of plants and help in maintaining the health and well-being of human beings and animals. One of the benefits which the sun can give is to aid the human skin to produce a substance called vitamin D, which is necessary for complete good health and which prevents rickets in children.

A brown, tanned color is the result of the deposit of a pigment or coloring matter in the skin called melanin. This helps to protect the body against getting too much from the sun's rays. When the skin becomes pale it means that there is not much melanin present. Melanin is not deposited in the skin at once on exposure to sun but takes time.

A white skin, therefore, is not so well protected against the sun as it is when good tanning is present. Until the skin is in this condition it can be burned by the sun in almost exactly the same way that it can be burned by any other hot substance.

People who are not accustomed to much sunlight and do not show tanning should be careful about the first few exposures. Falling asleep in the sun is particularly risky!

Several ointments or lotions can be placed on the skin and do protect somewhat against rays of the sun and promote tanning rather than burning. A person with a pale skin, however, cannot safely feel that to do this will give absolute protection

Today In Europe

By DAVID LAWRENCE

LONDON — Selection of a place to hold the four power conference can have an important bearing on the success or failure of the meeting itself. For this reason, a conference held in Canada — either at Quebec or Vancouver — offers the best opportunity for continuous endeavors.

If the conference were held in Switzerland, President Eisenhower would be able to attend only for the first few days and could not be expected to return at frequent intervals, if at all. But if the conference is held in Canada, he could participate whenever the sessions showed promise of reaching an important accord. This is on the assumption that a meeting "at the summit" is really intended to develop agreements at the top level.

But if the principle work is to be done by the foreign ministers afterward and the heads of the governments are merely to contribute the window dressing, then a meeting in a European city would probably be the most dramatic setting for a show.

It is certain that, if the President goes to Switzerland for the four power meeting, he will be invited to visit both Great Britain and France. From the American viewpoint — that is, considering the necessity of outlining the policies of the United States in world affairs — a speech delivered by Mr. Eisenhower in England and another in France could have a powerful effect on public opinion throughout Europe, where it is most needed.

Unfortunately, addresses by the President of the United States, when delivered in America, are rarely cabled in full text and, because of the faraway psychology, most newspapers print only brief extracts. The chances are, if President Eisenhower spoke in Europe, his addresses would do more good than a whole year's output of American comments from sources of lesser importance.

A visit to Great Britain just in advance of the meeting of the four power conference would enable President Eisenhower to outline the aims and objectives of the United States in world affairs in much the same way that President Wilson did before the Versailles Conference after the close of World War I. The opportunities for an expression of the moral force of the American nation come all too rarely to an American President. Mr. Wilson's only mistake was that, after a few addresses, he never sought to influence world opinion again in behalf of his ideals but succumbed to the pressures of small conference at which the atmosphere of secret bargaining and trading deprived him of the leverage he had on world opinion.

Should President Eisenhower come to Britain, he probably will be welcomed as a friend. He would be seen heard over television and radio, respectively, by audiences numbering in the millions. Also this is familiar ground to Mr. Eisenhower because, as a general of the army, he launched from this country the historic invasion of the Normandy coast in 1944. His presence would bring back memories of the victory insured for Britain and the liberation achieved for France. It might also remind the peoples behind the iron curtain, including those of the Soviet Union, that it was the solidarity of the wartime alliance which made possible the defeat of the common enemy.

There are in fact, so many implications of possible benefit all around if Mr. Eisenhower decides to go to the countries whose top leaders are to participate with him in the conference "at the summit" that it would appear certain President Eisenhower will accept the invitations that are bound to be extended to him.

There is always the problem of not offending the other countries whose heads of state would also invite the President — for example, West Germany and Italy. It is also conceivable that some of the strategists in the Soviet Union might see too. But Mr. Eisenhower would be able to advantage of extending an invitation, accept only those requests which came from Great Britain and France because the work in preparation for the four power conference must primarily be undertaken with the heads of those two countries. There would be no time for extended visits.

If Mr. Eisenhower came to London and Paris, he would be in a sense helping to prepare for the work of the big conference itself. For he would be meeting with the leaders in those two countries and his main objective would be to cement the Western Alliance in advance of the four power meeting.

The United States has definitely come off better (at the Bandung conference) than the fondest hopes at Washington and particularly the State Department — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., (D-N.Y.).

Today In Washington

By PETER EDSON

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — From June 15 to 17, newspaper readers will see a strange gateline in the columns of their favorite dailies. It will be something like: INFORMATION HEADQUARTERS, OPERATION ALERT, 1955.

Radio news broadcasts and teletype will also purport to be coming from this same mysterious location.

It will be strictly a "SOMEWHERE IN AMERICA" dateline.

It's exact location is more or less of an open secret in Washington. But to carry out the fiction that Washington has been atom-or H-bombed out of existence and that the President and all the big shots of government have beat it for parts unknown, nobody is supposed to tell where the secret headquarters are.

Federal Civil Defense Administration under Gov. Val Peterson and Office of Defense Mobilization under Dr. Arthur Flemming will be in charge of setting up this Information Headquarters. It will be under control of the White House.

For the American news services and the radio and TV networks, this will be a first test of where their U. S. government news will come from and how it will be handled in case of an actual bombing attack.

Not too much attention has been paid to this problem by the news media up to now. Their first job will of course be to give coverage to local disaster and recovery.

"Operation Alert" may be an eye-opener on how the national news will be handled, with many of the usual lines of communication to government news sources disrupted.

Into this Information Headquarters will come primary news on how the Operation Alert exercise is going. This involves 50 designated cities of the 92 prime, metropolitan target areas of the United States, plus seven other cities which will have a surprise alert, without warning.

This test will run 24 hours, beginning at 11 a.m. June 15. But the Washington government will run its test for another 48 hours just to test its own operations under emergency conditions.

In all, 15,000 out of the Washington area's 250,000 government employees will take part in the evacuation test.

Emergency headquarters for the White House and 30 principal government agencies will be established out of town. They will be in secret locations, 50 to 300 miles from Washington, in a sector that is west, northwest and southwest from the capital.

None of the emergency headquarters will be to the east because prevailing winds would normally spread fall-out dust in that direction from a bomb blast over the capital.

Giant Walleyed Pike Wins First Prize In Derby

Boy And Woman Among Winners

A giant walleyed pike weighing 8 pounds 8 ounces topped the four winners in the first week of the Escanaba Daily Press Fishing Derby.

The big fish, which measured 29 inches in length, was boated by Loyal Sigfrids of Stonington on the Ogonz Bay last Wednesday. It was not only the largest walleye reported caught this season but stacks up well with the largest taken in this area in several years.

Sigfrids will receive a prize for his large walleye, as will three other anglers who turned in the biggest fish in other categories. His prize-winner was weighed in at Haga's Store in Kipling.

Fairer Sex Wins

All entries in the Daily Press Fishing Derby, which will continue through this month, must be made at official weighing stations in Escanaba, Gladstone, Manistique and Kipling fishing tackle stores. Entry blanks and scales are available at the weigh-in stations.

The fairer sex stole the show from the males in the northern pike division of the first week's derby. Mrs. Eva Pilote of 323 N. 20th St., Escanaba, came up with the largest pike in the contest.

She landed an 11 pounds 15 ounce Northern on the Rapid River last week to easily top the other entries in the first week's derby. Her fish measured 39 inches in length and had a 13 1/2 inch girth. It was entered in the Derby at DeRoock's Store in Gladstone.

Boy Gets Prize

A small youngster traveled no farther than the Escanaba Yacht Basin to catch the biggest perch entered in the contest thus far. Dickie Dubord, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dubord, 411 S. 9th St., pulled in a one-pound perch to earn the first prize in that division. The fish was registered at Norstrom Hardware in Escanaba.

The Derby did not produce an entry in the brook trout division but the largest rainbow trout, not officially a category in the contest, was voted a prize. Derby officials said that only brook trout will be included in the contest for the remaining weeks of the Derby.

The biggest rainbow entered was a 2 pounds 13 ounce beauty measuring 20 inches in length and with a girth of 8 3-8 inches. It was taken by William Lindahl, 1601 Wisconsin Ave., Gladstone. Lindahl caught the prize winner on the Whitefish River and entered it at the weigh-in station at Haga's Store in Kipling.

Expect More Entries

Derby officials were stumped by the lack of entries in the perch division of the contest. They had expected it to be the most popular fish in the Derby but only a few perch were included in the list of entries.

Good fishing conditions continue in the area and with more fishermen in action each day the Derby entry list is expected to swell this week. Fishermen are reminded to bring their catches to an official weighing station so that it can be entered in the Derby.

In order to be eligible for the Derby, fish must be taken by hook and line within 75 miles of Escanaba. Smallmouth bass will be included in the categories after the season opens on Saturday, June 18.

Male Crabs Are Lure In Crustacean Catch

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP) — Maryland's centuries-old crab industry has put the even older idea of sex appeal to a new use among male crustaceans.

For decades watermen have been using fresh fish bait to attract peeler—female—crabs into crabpots. But the fish also attracted eels, toadfish and other undesirable passers-by.

Now, say watermen, male crabs used as live bait bring the peelers swarming to the crab pots, or traps. From there they go to packing houses, where they shed their shells and become soft crabs.

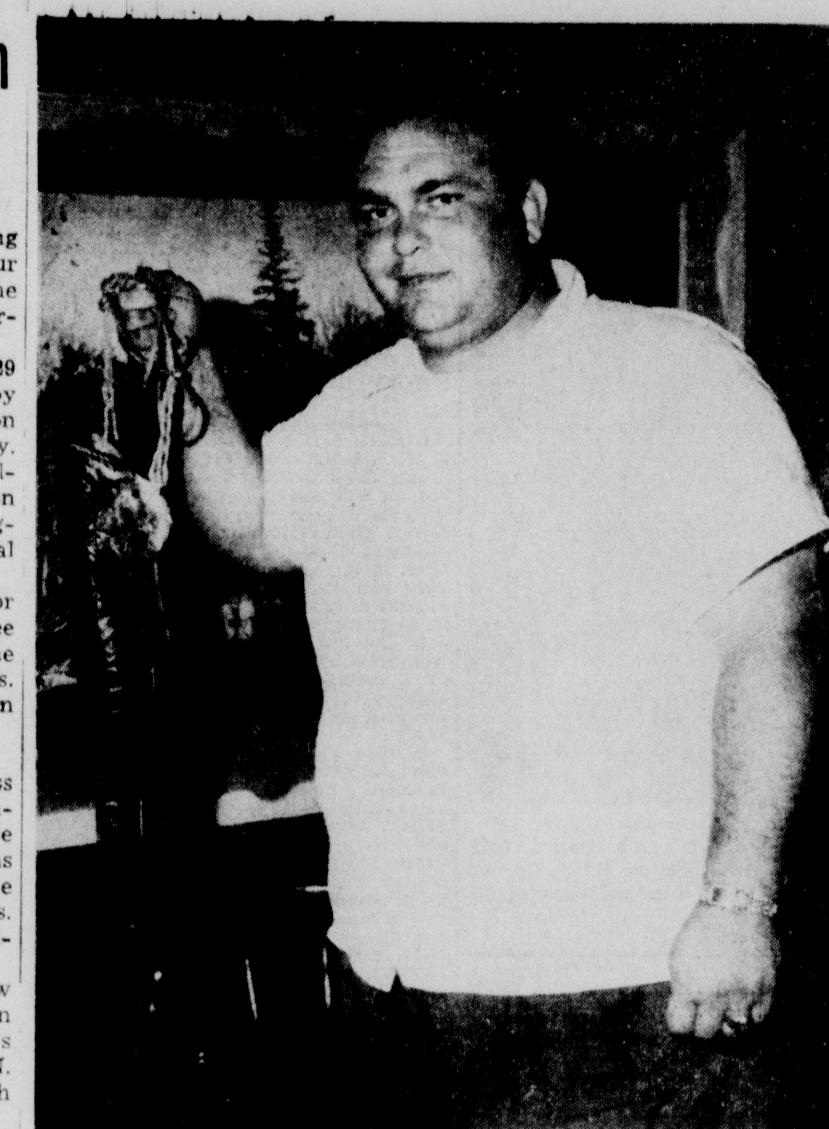

Meanwhile, the male crabs remain in the crab pots, still luring them in.

Porcupines often destroy trees by feeding on the inner bark, killing the tree by girdling it.

St. Louis Zoo Plans Barnyard Exhibits

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Most St. Louis children are experts on polar bears, gorillas and the like, but not enough of them know about such critters as pigs, chickens and cows.

That's why city officials are considering a barnyard display at the St. Louis zoo, possibly in the form of a miniature farm. This facility will give thousands of city children their first look at a collection of farm animals," said Mayor Raymond R. Tucker.

Summer Arrives Late On June 21

ANN ARBOR—If you think it's not now, just wait until August! Says Associate Prof. Hazel M. Losh of the University of Michigan.

Although summer begins officially at 11:32 p. m. June 21 and we'll have our longest day—15 hours of daylight—we won't have our warmest one, she points out. The earth will be storing up more heat than it is losing because the atmosphere acts like a blanket holding back some of the heat falling on the surface, she explains. She adds that by August the earth will be losing more heat than it's gaining so it will be about twice as hot for us, since we'll have the sun beating down from above and the earth letting off steam below.

This month we'll see the famous Northern Cross, one of the most magnificent constellations, rising on its side in the northeastern sky just after dark. Although not as brilliant as the celebrated Southern Cross, its stars form a larger and more perfect figure.

The big Detroit Lions star, who announced his retirement late last season, stands 6-4 and tips the scales at 335 pounds in playing shape.

Bingaman is regarded as one of football's all-time line greats. He came out of Illinois as a member of the Rose Bowl champions of 1947 to join the Lions. He was named All-Pro for five straight years, 1950 through 1954 and was co-captain of the Detroit team in 1950 and 1953.

This is the third straight year that Bingaman, employed by the Goebel Brewing Co. in off-seasons, has come to the Rapid River area for walleye fishing.

Pastors will appeal to the parishioners on that Sunday to participate in a campaign to reduce the toll of highway deaths.

The movement began in Berrien County two years ago and last year was made statewide by a proclamation from Gov. Williams and the endorsement of the Michigan Council of Churches.

The Rev. Stanley Buck, pastor of the Benton Harbor First Methodist Church, is general chairman of a committee of public officials and clergymen throughout the state. Gov. Williams will again serve as honorary chairman.

Funny Business

THIS PILE OF blood-soaked clothing, identified as that of Bruce Kins, 20, of Kokomo, Ind., was found this morning about 100 yards from the place where the body of Ernest Mattonen was found near Watson. Kins is the self-confessed slayer of Mattonen. (Daily Press Photo) to have had a small amount of money.

Kins is an adopted child and his parents live on a farm about six miles from Kokomo. His father is a steel worker.

Mattonen is a native of Finland. He came to this country a number of years ago but returned to Finland for a year. He came back to the United States in 1916 and settled in the Watson area. He worked at various times for his brother, William Abramson, who owns a farm near the Mattonen shack. Abramson changed his name after arriving in this country but Ernest Mattonen and another brother, Otto, who also lives in the Watson area, retained the family name. Mattonen also is survived by his sister, Mrs. Mary Sander, Cromwell, Minn.

The Mattonen home is located in Marquette County. Presumably Kins will be extradited from North Dakota on the murder charge in Michigan.

Otto Mattonen and his son, Elmer, reported that they first became aware of the absence of Ernest Mattonen on Saturday. Mattonen regularly had gone to the Otto Mattonen home on Saturdays for a Finnish-bath. He failed to show up last Saturday. It was not the first time that he had missed, however, although such occasions were rare.

Otto and his son and William Abrahamson assisted the police in the search for Ernest's body after the report of Kins' confession was relayed from North Dakota. The body was discovered after a search of about a half hour. The coroner was called by the police officers.

K. Of C. Appoints Nominating Group

During the regular business meeting of the Knights of Columbus, council 640, last evening, the group appointed a nominating committee for the election of officers to be held June 20.

Joseph Lequin was appointed chairman, and he will be assisted by Paul Degenefeff and Walter Bjorkquist.

The K. of C. annual picnic will be held at Pulaski Park at Bark River July 24. John Sankovitch is general chairman of the outing.

Ford Agreement Sets Stage For GM Negotiations

assuring labor peace at that firm and perhaps the rest of the auto industry, also provided 6 to 8 cents annual wage boosts for Ford workers, plus important pension, holiday, vacation, insurance and other contract improvements.

Reuther put a 20 cents per hour price tag on the Ford settlement. This is far ahead of the 5 to 10 cents an hour settlements which have been normal lately and is sure to become the new bargaining target for labor unions generally across the nation.

Trend To Inflation

The outlook, therefore, is for bigger wage settlements and a possible subsequent round of price increases, the result being an inflationary trend in the economy after approximately two years of sustained stability.

The Ford agreement, incidentally, retains a cost-of-living clause providing that wage rates are adjusted up or down according to living cost changes.

A Ford spokesman said the average hourly rate in the auto industry last year was $2.10. He estimated that under the new contract average hourly earnings would be increased to $2.30.

RAISED 20 CENTS

DETROIT (AP) — The CIO United Auto Workers who said Monday that its contract settlement with Ford Motor Co. was for the equivalent of 20 cents an hour increase per worker today released the following breakdown of how it arrived at the figure.

Prepared by Nat Weinberg, research director for the UAW, the breakdown listed:

1. The annual improvement factor—6.2 cents. This yearly raise compensates workers for increased efficiency obtained from men and machines.

2. The guaranteed-annual-wage principle, according to the union, or supplementary unemployment compensation, in the company's phrasing—5 cents.

3. Increased pension benefits—4.5 cents.

4. Elimination of wage inequalities, including an 8-cent-an-hour increase for some skilled categories—1.3 cents.

5. Increased health insurance, including "substantial" benefits for workers—1.2 cents.

6. Triple-pay for holidays—0.8 of 1 cent.

7. Premium pay for shift work—0.8 of 1 cent.

8. Vacation allowance improvements—0.2 of 1 cent.

If these eight items are added up, the cost of the new agreement becomes exactly 20 cents for each man hour worked.

Buyer must clear the chattel, but terms can be arranged on the real estate.

Admiral Talks At East Lansing

EAST LANSING (AP) — Adm. W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has cautioned the free world not to interpret the recent switch in Soviet Russia's tactics as a departure from long range Communist objectives.

Radford told the Michigan State College graduating class Sunday, that despite East-West accord on the Austrian treaty and Moscow's apparent willingness to participate in Big Four talks, there has been no real indication of a fundamental change in the Kremlin's policy.

"The military threat of Communism is a very real one," Radford said.

But all was not grim for the young graduates, he added.

"I suggest that if any of you young people ever think of betting your future on the world being destroyed you better take a long look at the odds," he said. "The end-of-the-world predictions are not new."

More than 20,000 persons turned out to see the 1,895 graduates in sun-drenched Macklin Stadium.

RARE TYPE OF PLAY

EVERY play known at double-dummy (i.e., with all the cards exposed) also comes up, of course, in normal bridge games, and truly expert declarers can execute most of these plays without difficulty.

Now, however, suppose that you have another loser—suppose that West allows you to trade your club king for his club four. Can you make it against perfect defense? No, you cannot. There is no earthly way by which you can avoid the loss of four tricks in the red suits.

The station said the "mass kidnaps" right after Germany's World War II surrender resulted in 16,000 abductions. Of this total, "scarcely more than 4,800 have returned to their homes."

Russians Holding 11,000 Abducted German Youths

BERLIN (AP) — RIAS, Berlin's U.S.-operated radio station, demanded Monday to know the fate of more than 11,000 young Germans "Abducted" by the Soviet Union 10 years ago.

In a special broadcast, RIAS charged the 16 and 17-year-old boys and girls were seized by Russian occupation forces without any valid reason.

The play is based, paradoxically enough, on the good fortune of having a sure loser instead of a sure winner in a certain suit! Here is the classic example:

Scholarship Awards Issued On Priorities

The cash scholarships, including the Anna C. Norton, the Catherine Bonifas, the H. W. Reade and the Albert J. Young Memorial funds, which were presented today during the 1955 Honor Day program, are based on a scholarship priority list.

Applicants for these scholarships are placed on this priority list as a result of their scholastic ranking in class, the teacher ranking, a psychological test, a battery of high school content tests and the need factor.

The need factor is broken down into four categories ranging from little need to extreme need. A student who is good in scholarship and shows promise as a college list will be considered and those receiving money awards move up on the list.

This year the money awards from the Norton scholarship fund went to 15 seniors. Five of them received cash scholarships of $1650; five received $1300 each, and five received $950. The Anna C. Norton scholarships shall be contingent upon carrying a four year college program.

Three Catherine Bonifas awards, each totalling $312.50 were granted. The two other cash awards presented today were the H. W. Reade, totalling $225, and Albert J. Young, totalling $200.

Teens Can Tote This Trimly

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

During the winter, a teenager's coat pocket is her handbag. Into the sagging patch pockets of her winter coat go wallet, comb and lipstick. No need for a handbag.

The problem is more difficult in the summer, when coats are firmly away in mothballs. Many teenagers find their hands chock full of wallet, lipstick, comb, dark glasses, fountain pen and pass to the lake swimming dock.

Finding a good-looking carrier for these belongings is not always easy. Many handbag manufacturers seem to forget a teenager's budget and her desire not to look old before her time. Other manufacturers cater to teenagers with plastic party bags that won't do for every day.

The tote bag is a sensible solution. It's deep and can carry a multitude of things. It's youthful and easy to carry with a strap that slides on the arm.

One handbag designer has solved the problem in a practical fashion. A handbag right down the teenager's alley is in rayon straw cloth. It mops off with a damp cloth and should be practically indestructible. It has a zipper, which is a help on hectic rides to the beach when open tote bags have a way of depositing their contents all over a date.

A teenager's summer accessories need neat carrying. This tote bag, by Montparnasse, is in rayon straw cloth and has a protective zipper opening and a wide, long band handle. It wipes right off with a damp cloth. (Dress by Jerell, Jr.)

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon is the Golden Text from Isaiah (43:2, 3): "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee; when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flames kindle upon thee. For I am the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Israel, thy Savior."

Upper Peninsula camp-meeting which will be held at the Wilson Adventist Church June 9-12.

What people who are outside the family think of the matter depends upon what they know. If they're never conscious that a friend owes her hair color to an artifice rather than nature, they are probably not conscious of the fact that they consider her younger.

Yet how quickly a woman who tints her hair can sense a patronizing attitude on the part of her youngers if she lets her hair grow out.

For women who work outside the home, it may have become pure necessity. How seldom does a personnel department fret ahead of the age of a brown-or black-headed woman? How often are antagonistic questions asked of a gray-or white-headed woman, even if she's prematurely gray?

In an ideal world, perhaps, these problems would never come up. It is somewhat bitter to consider that gray at the temples proves a man "experienced" but a woman "too old" for a job.

If you do tint your hair or are planning on it, keep it up to date. Letting it grow out a little is far worse than having the natural color. If you're too busy or budget-bound to get to a beauty salon often enough, learn how to do it yourself or get a friend to help. Use utmost care and follow the manufacturer's directions to the letter.

One nursing organization estimates that the United States needs 50,000 more nurses.

Mrs. Ethel Cox today returned to Chicago after visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanDrese, 1324 N. 19th St.

Mrs. Gary Abrahamson and two children, Gary and Vicki, of Chicago are visiting at the home of Mrs. Abrahamson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Flath, 1710 Ludington St. Mr. Abrahamson will join them later.

Hair Tinting Is Personal Matter

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Tinting hair is a very important and personal boon to many women. Many would just as soon give it up as give up their girdle—which is never.

Many women who thought they would never do it, and, in fact, even disapproved of the idea, now cling to it in their maturity.

Little Kitchen Maid

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The whole value of a bra or girdle is in its fit. It may be tedious to get into a dressing room and peel down to the skin to try on, but there is nothing more useless than a bra that has no relationship to your figure.

Fit means fit for you, not someone else. Many women wear a tight bra with a cup too shallow for them, thinking it will make a full bosom smaller. All it does is push the flesh up under the arm, producing a bulge and damaging the tissue.

A too-lose bra may produce a figure less good-looking than your own or allow tissues to sag. This is a very important point for young ladies with full bosoms. This may allow damage to take place that can never be remedied.

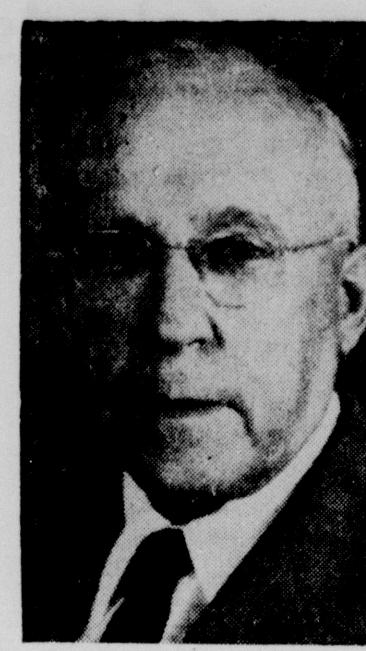

Frozen brussel sprouts are widely available and so nutritious that they can be used often to good advantage in family menus. Try serving them with browned butter and toaster almonds. Or team them with cream sauce and a topping of crisp crumbled bacon.

Students Hear Rev. Peterson

"He that findeth his life shall lose it and he that loseth his life shall find it" was the theme developed by Rev. Clifford Peterson, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, in his Baccalaureate address on "The Secret of Successful Living" delivered to Gladstone High School seniors Sunday evening.

Most of us try to make the most out of life but there are many who don't and the pastor tied this to the illustration of life as a tree with fruit on every branch and each entitled to a share of it. The problem arises when we find that this life never yields the best fruit to those that shake the tree too hard.

The example of the boys who in youth shake the tree too hard, obtain too much fruit, find the limbs bare and nothing left to anticipate—life sometimes reacts when we want all at once, the speaker said.

Life, he continued, was not something to go out and take as we want it—it can be taken away from us very quickly—life should have the guidance of God above.

The pace of life is too fast today and has resulted in an increase in ailments including heart disease and ulcers which we probably would not find had we lived more quietly.

In order to attain to greater aims of life we find it pays to aim ahead of life and he used the illustration of the hunter who wishing to hit a flying duck must lead the target.

Aim Ahead

Many miss things in life because their aim is too low and Rev. Peterson pointed to the many persons who go to college for four years of "good time" not to study and obtain the most out of the course and thus the true objective of the course is never reached.

The speaker pointed out that the one who goes to get the most out of his studies also has a good time for he has the satisfaction of achievement. The greatest emphasis on life can never be found unless we lose ourselves.

"In all finality the greatness of God is revealed to us in Christ and laid hold of by faith in Him," the speaker said in conclusion. "Lose your life and you will find it."

The invocation and benediction was offered by Rev. Albert K. Burns, pastor of the Mission Covenant Church.

Larry Feldt presented a bass solo "The Rosary" by Ethelred Nevin and the a cappella chorus also presented two selections.

MANISTIQUE

S. R. Rosenthal
Will Address
MHS Graduates

Commencement exercises for 87 students to be graduated from Manistique High School this year will be held at 8 p. m., Thursday in the High School auditorium with Samuel R. Rosenthal, of Chicago, MHS alumnus, as guest speaker.

Rosenthal was graduated in 1916 from Manistique High School and subsequently received degrees from the University of Michigan (1921) and Harvard Law School (1924). In World War I, he was commissioned at 2nd lieutenant and served with the U. S. infantry.

Since completion of his studies and military duty, Rosenthal has been associated with law firms in Chicago, first the firm of Foreman, Bluford, Steele and Schultz (1924-1926) and, since 1926, the firm of Sonneneschein Berkson Laumann Levinson and Morse. In recent years he has handled cases involving international civil law and made numerous trips to Europe and Africa.

Active in Community

Rosenthal is the donor of the Lazarus and Rachel Rosenthal scholarship fund instituted here in 1947. It provides $250 each year for a needy and deserving Manistique High School student planning to attend college. Mr. Rosenthal also has frequently supplemented the scholarship award for students.

The former Manistique resident is a member of the board of education for District 113 in Lake County, Illinois, a member of the Counsel of the Caxton club, the board of governors of the University of Michigan club in Chicago, the North Shore Council of Boy Scouts, Judge advocate of the American Legion Post 145 in Highland Park, a life trustee of the Highland Park Hospital foundation and a member of the Harvard Law School annual giving fund committee. He formerly was president of the Highland Park Community Chest and of the Township Trustees of Schools in Deerfield township, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosenthal have a son, Martin, who is a junior in Dartmouth and a daughter, Louise, who is a freshman in Highland Park High school.

The Graduates

The Rev. Fr. Edmund Szoka, assistant pastor of St. Francis de Sales church, will give the invocation Thursday night. The program includes the processional and recessional, and singing of "One Little Candle," "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Halls of Ivy" by the MHS Mixed Chorus.

Graduating Students Are Urged To Trust In God

The greatest contribution any person can make is to reach full maturity, for then he gives to society more than he takes from it, the Rev. Noah M. Inbody told Manistique High School graduating students at baccalaureate services in the MHS auditorium Sunday night.

Rev. Inbody, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, urged graduates to discard outmoded common prejudices in order to think clearly on solution of the many problems certain to beset a world living in fear of the hydrogen bomb, and confronted with the problem of Communism and increasing demands for freedom from the black and yellow races.

"Don't come into the adult world with closed minds and don't perpetuate half-truths which linger from the past," he advised students. The speaker emphasized that possession of knowledge does not constitute wisdom and does not make a mature person. "We must use our God-given minds to think clearly in solving present day problems," he explained.

Live By Principles

To achieve maturity we must think clearly, love our fellow man sincerely, act from honest motives, purely and trust in God and heaven, securely, Rev. Inbody stressed.

In order to love our fellow man sincerely, we must first realize our equality, realize that when what is given to each of us individually is taken away, we stand equal, he explained.

Each person is a sovereign personality, but he is with billions of others sovereign personalities. Therefore he must act accordingly, always remembering that the human personality holds far greater riches than any profit or precious metal, Rev. Inbody declared.

The baccalaureate speaker, selected by students, urged them to be "doers of the word," not just hearers, and to act in accordance with their own knowledge of right and wrong. "What you do becomes part of you, so live according to principles, not short-sighted expediency" he emphasized.

Must Trust Bad

To make a constructive mark in the world, it is essential that each

Rotarians Hear Convention Report By Russell Watson

Members of the Manistique Rotary club Monday noon heard Russell Watson, a member and former district governor, present a report on his recent attendance at the Rotary Institute in Lake Placid, N. C. and the Rotary convention in Chicago.

The Rotary Institute in Lake Placid, for former district governors and higher officials, considered changes proposed in organization and procedure. It coordinates activities of the far-flung men's club. Its sessions were held simultaneously with the gathering of Rotary governors from 91 countries and regions of the world, of which governors-nominee are instructed in organization and procedure. About 300 governors attended the 8-day session.

Rotary consists of approximately 8500 clubs and embraces some 408,000 members. It has clubs in nearly all nations, excepting Spain and those behind the Iron Curtain. The organization consists of business and professional men.

In Chicago, the 15,000 Rotarians attending the convention heard Vice President Richard Nixon and Leslie B. Pearson, Canadian foreign minister. The growth of Rotary from 1905 until 1955, its golden anniversary year, set the theme for the Chicago meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson left May 21 and were away two weeks.

Ex-Escanaba athlete Jim Nyquist was one of 23 seniors at Michigan Tech awarded blankets, the final athletic award given at the college, at a recent school function. Nyquist earned four football letters at Tech. He was a standout football and baseball player at Escanaba High School.

Escanaba athletes made a brilliant debut in the Tri County baseball loop Sunday afternoon. Eight of Coach Jim Rouman's Escanaba Eskymo baseball players joined the Bears last week and came through with a 1-0 victory over Powers in the feature game of the week. Harlan Breitzman, who tossed 14 straight wins in Escanaba's long prep string of 43 wins, threw a two-hitter in his first start in the Tri County.

Duck hunters in this area can look forward to a good season, according to Ducks Unlimited's recent report on waterfowl breeding in the prairie provinces of western Canada. "All in all," the report summarizes, "the three prairie provinces promise to turn out a duck crop comparable to the outstanding 1952 season."

At the current rate of turnover, this year will produce as many new Upper Peninsula high school coaches as in the past when as many as 20 such positions changed hands. Latest U. P. head coach to resign was Eddie Olds of Sault Ste. Marie who has been Blue Devil mentor since 1951. Stephenson will have two new coaches next year, with Francis Cappaert leaving the track job and Walt Schousen the football post.

Milo Johnson, who started his baseball career in Watersmeet and saw service with Green Bay of the Wisconsin State League and Little Rock of the Southern Association, is no longer a property of the Detroit Tigers. He's pitching semi-pro ball with an Ashland, Wis., team at the present. Johnson was voted the most valuable player in the Southern Association in 1953 with Little Rock and after last season when he had a 16-11 record his contract was picked up by the Tigers.

Eskymo Spring Sports Athletes Are Honored

Escanaba High School spring sports athletes and cheerleaders were honored in the annual awards day program at the school this morning.

Baseball, track, tennis and golf athletes received letters for participation in the Eskymo sports program.

Highlighting the program was the awarding of baseball letters by Coach Jim Rouman to 16 players who helped extend Escanaba's state record victory string to 43 games. The Eskymo team went through eight straight undefeated games this past season, the fifth unbeaten year in the string that began back in 1950.

The Eskymo baseball team presented an autographed ball to Coach Rouman. Dave Vieu, outfielder, and Jim Beck, shortstop, made the presentation.

Athletes receiving baseball letters were Allen Erickson, Bucky

Flath, Jack Carlson, Pat Coyne, Jim Beck, Hugh Ray, Bob Bero, Dave Vieu, Norm Seguin, Harlan Breitzman, Bob Chriske, Rick Erickson, Bill Ringuette, Elmer Besson, Bill Bohl and Ron Johnson.

Track athletes presented letters by Steve Baltic and Henry Wylie were Don Dahl, Bob Douglas, Steve Douglas, Gary Gillespie, Bob Hay, Dave Judson, Dale Manske, Mike Mileski, Bruce Carlson, Bob Dahlkiv, Franklin Olson, Con Prokos, Fred Sipinen, Evan Rogers, Eugene Gamache and Bob Rohde.

Tennis awards were presented by Coach Frank Miketinac to Ted Anspaugh, Jim Anderson, Bob Zitner, Dale Emb, Bruce Farrell and Ken Sovay.

Golf awards were presented by Coach Jack Magnusen to John LeMire, Don Mathews, Tom Hogan, Fred Olson and Gerald Martin. The Eskymo golf team won its fourth straight Upper Peninsula Class B championship this spring.

Al Kaline hit a Homer for the Tigers but it came with none on and could hardly match the five made by the Yanks. However, it stretched the youngster's new hitting streak to 14 games. It was his ninth four-bagger.

Tigers Make Fight

Even with all the Yankee slugging, the Tigers threatened seriously in the ninth. Jim Delsing's two-run double knocked rookie Johnny Kucks out of the box, bringing in Jim Konstanty from the bull pen.

Konstanty, a palm ball specialist, retired Fred Hatfield and Bob Wilson to lock up young Kucks' fourth straight victory and run his overall record to 5-1.

Billy Hoeft, who pitched the first seven innings, suffered his third loss against five wins. He gave up four of the Yankee homers.

Tieup Threatens Lakes Tugboats

DETROIT (AP) — Three AFL unions Monday set a deadline of 6 a.m. Wednesday for a strike on Great Lakes tugs that could tie up shipping if other unions respect picket lines.

Officials of the U.S. Conciliation and Mediation Service said talks over union demands broke down last week with the Great Lakes Dredge Men's Assn.

Between 500 and 600 men belong to the three unions — the Tugboat Firemen and Oilers; the Rock and Drillboat Employes and the Dredge Men.

They rejected a company package offer of 12½ cents an hour which included nine cents in wages and 3½ cents in fringe benefits. Union demands were not specified.

A strike would idle some 750 employed on the Mackinac Straits Bridge project at St. Ignace. Nearly all supplies for the project, including concrete, are waterborne by tugs.

C. Of C. Gives Out Grace Cards For Proper Prayers

AP Newsfeatures

WALTHAM, Mass.—The Chamber of Commerce has turned to prayer. It uses its own funds to prepare grace cards with Catholic, Protestant and Jewish prayers appropriate for use before meals. They are distributed to restaurants, hospitals and private homes.

Earl J. Arnold, secretary, says 40,000 have been sent out since 1953. He hopes it has helped to "make better men as well as a better city."

Hundreds of letters show wide interest in the project. They include requests for cards and thanks for the revival of prayer before meals.

Arnold's inspiration came from Mamaroneck, N. Y. where a local pastor and his family stirred interest when they said grace in a restaurant. A Mamaroneck group was formed to distribute grace cards and the Waltham Chamber of Commerce followed suit.

Now a large restaurant chain has printed its own place mats with the prayers on them, and a manufacturer has started supplying grace napkins.

Arnold will send a sample of the card to anyone who writes for it. Many organizations print their own cards to distribute to employees, at dinners, or include with presents.

"I don't know how many people we've inspired," Arnold says. "But I do feel we have played a part in the great nationwide return to religion and things spiritual."
